KEITH A. SEGALMAN, MD RECOGNIZED BY CHESAPEAKE FAMILY MAGAZINE AS FAVORITE HEALTHCARE PROVIDER

Listing of doctors, dentists and healthcare providers compiled based on recommendations from parents in Maryland region

Baltimore, MD (August 24, 2010) – Keith A. Segalman, MD, an arm and hand surgeon with Greater Chesapeake Hand Specialists (CGHS), has been recognized by Chesapeake Family magazine in its listing of “Favorite Healthcare Providers” in the Central Maryland region. The compilation of doctors, dentists and healthcare professionals was based on the personal recommendations and nominations from local parents.

Chesapeake Family produced this guide to serve as a “resource to Maryland-area families and to provide guidance to those who might otherwise not know where to turn for their family’s health concerns.”

Dr. Segalman is Board-Certified in Orthopedic Surgery and Microvascular Hand Surgery and earned his Medical Degree from the New York University School of Medicine. He performed his Hand Surgery and Microvascular Fellowship at The Raymond Curtis National Hand Center at Union Memorial Hospital in Baltimore. Dr. Segalman is a member of the American Society for the Hand, the American Medical Association and the Maryland Orthopaedic Association of Maryland, among others.

He resides with his family in Baltimore, MD.

Founded in 1987 and based in Lutherville, MD, Greater Chesapeake Hand Specialists, P.A. focuses on providing successful outcomes for the entire spectrum of problems associated with the hand, wrist, elbow and shoulder. The practice group, which consists of nine full-time physicians, maintains seven satellite locations throughout Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Carroll, Harford, Howard and Talbot counties, as well as Baltimore City.
